Celebrating the Life of Joy Dora Christofferson November 11th, 1927 – May 21st, 2026 We celebrate the beautiful life of Joy Dora Christofferson age 98 years young, born in L'Anse, Michigan. Her name matched her outlook, and every season of her life sparkled with warmth, energy, and purpose. Armed with a master's degree from Northwestern University, Joy poured her talent into being an educator. She taught at Litton High School for 2 years and then transferred to Pioneer Christian Academy where she taught from 1972 until closing in 2009. Math and computer classes were her specialty, and she looked forward to Pi Day each year. When a need arose, she gladly covered any subject—even a lesson on safe gun handling—because helping others learn made her happiest. Away from the classroom, Joy found fun on the bowling lanes, golf course, and in campgrounds under open skies. Friends at the Donelson Fellowship knew her as a faithful lifelong member, while family knew her as an extraordinary cook who loved gathering everyone around the table. Joy's loving circle remains wide. She is reunited with her parents Arthur and Dora Salness; husband Robert Keith Christofferson Sr. of 57 years; daughter, Carol Gore; siblings, Paul Salness, Lloyd Salness and Jeanne Marshall; granddaughter Mistey Faye and great-grandchild Oakley. She is fondly remembered by her son Robert Keith Christofferson Jr.; son-in-law, Mike Gore; and children: Sandra (Todd) Boone, Pamela Pelham, Hailey (Stephen) Hyde and Stormey Anna Maynard; great-grandchildren: Amberlynn, Christopher, Aaliyah, Sammey, Kelsey, Riley, Elizabeth Joy and Greyson; great-great grandchildren, Sadie Joy and one on the way – Oakland Harlan Hudson Hyde; who carry forward her spirit of curiosity and kindness. Meals shared, lessons taught, and games played—these bright memories form Joy's lasting gift. Let's honor her by growing closer with the Lord as it was her lifelong wish for those she loved to have a relationship with Jesus Christ; along with smiling at every moment she made richer and commit to keeping her love for learning and family at the center of our own lives. The odyssey of Jack Van Hooser

Staff Writer, The Daily Herald

Jack Van Hooser is a kindly, older gentleman with a gleam in his eye and a firm handshake. Although he lives in Nashville now, he graduated from Central High School in 1951. He played football, baseball and basketball, and he was Mr. Everything at the school. He won all sorts of awards before going off to Tennessee Tech where he won more. In spite of this, he tends to give the praise to others, and shies from taking any credit for himself. Jack is a gentleman's gentleman, and it is hard not to be charmed by him. Jack Van Hooser went on to serve as a school coach, and later as a distinguished member of state government. He finally was the director of Vocational Rehabilitation for the entire state before his retirement several years ago. His success in life is at odds with the struggles he had in growing up. This is the part of Jack's story that amazes me. Jack's father was a good bit older that his mother, and they were having marital difficulties. His mom and dad sheltered the three boys from any of this, and in 1939 they were divorced. The boys were told calmly and without rancor. It was decided that the youngest boy would go home to the mother's parent's farm with her, but that Jack and his older brother, Charles, would go with their father. zJack's Dad was a traveling salesman, of sorts. They packed all their worldly possessions into a single cardboard box tied up with twine, and they boarded a bus for the next big town down the line. Dad left the two small boys at the bus station as he walked around town until he found a boarding house, and a room for them to rent. Then he found a convenient taproom to knock back a few cold ones, before heading back to the bus station to collect his sons and their box. Dad's business saw him knocking on doors the next day looking for folks who had old photos that they wanted refinished and framed. After collecting several photos, and the requisite fees for his services, he would find a photo lab in town, and have the image cleaned up, enlarged and reproduced. He then went by some five and dime store, bought a cheap frame, and took the improved image of someone's loved one back to their house to pick up the final payment. It should be obvious that he was not getting rich. While Dad was out selling his services, the boys were usually left on their own for the day. Charles was a fourth grader and Jack was a first grader. They would wander the streets in whatever city they were in, but they studiously avoided getting in trouble. If they were in a big city, and were likely to be there awhile, their Dad would enroll them in a local school. Jack long ago lost any remembrance of all the many different schools they attended. Mostly they just wandered the streets, and got an excellent lesson in self-reliance. After several years of this zany existence, the boys came back to Maury County for high school. There at CHS Jack soared. His street smarts found him with good part-time jobs, but his social life was very limited. His mom had married Luke Moser at Bryant Station, and the boys helped him on the farm. In addition to this was school, a regular job in town, and Jack's first love – sports. He did not have time for that. He excelled at sports, and was offered a full ride scholarship at Tennessee Tech. How could he refuse? He got his degree, but even better, he won the heart of one of Tech's Golden Girls. Jack and Wanda have been married for…well, quite some time. Their life together has been exciting, and they have a passel of beautiful grandchildren to prove it. Jack knew that his particular story was unique, so he has written a book about it. I read it cover to cover, and had a hard time putting it down. It is called, "A Journey to Remember."
