Celebrating the Life of Joy Dora Christofferson November 11th, 1927 – May 21st, 2026 We celebrate the beautiful life of Joy Dora Christofferson age 98 years young, born in L'Anse, Michigan. Her name matched her outlook, and every season of her life sparkled with warmth, energy, and purpose. Armed with a master's degree from Northwestern University, Joy poured her talent into being an educator. She taught at Litton High School for 2 years and then transferred to Pioneer Christian Academy where she taught from 1972 until closing in 2009. Math and computer classes were her specialty, and she looked forward to Pi Day each year. When a need arose, she gladly covered any subject—even a lesson on safe gun handling—because helping others learn made her happiest. Away from the classroom, Joy found fun on the bowling lanes, golf course, and in campgrounds under open skies. Friends at the Donelson Fellowship knew her as a faithful lifelong member, while family knew her as an extraordinary cook who loved gathering everyone around the table. Joy's loving circle remains wide. She is reunited with her parents Arthur and Dora Salness; husband Robert Keith Christofferson Sr. of 57 years; daughter, Carol Gore; siblings, Paul Salness, Lloyd Salness and Jeanne Marshall; granddaughter Mistey Faye and great-grandchild Oakley. She is fondly remembered by her son Robert Keith Christofferson Jr.; son-in-law, Mike Gore; and children: Sandra (Todd) Boone, Pamela Pelham, Hailey (Stephen) Hyde and Stormey Anna Maynard; great-grandchildren: Amberlynn, Christopher, Aaliyah, Sammey, Kelsey, Riley, Elizabeth Joy and Greyson; great-great grandchildren, Sadie Joy and one on the way – Oakland Harlan Hudson Hyde; who carry forward her spirit of curiosity and kindness. Meals shared, lessons taught, and games played—these bright memories form Joy's lasting gift. Let's honor her by growing closer with the Lord as it was her lifelong wish for those she loved to have a relationship with Jesus Christ; along with smiling at every moment she made richer and commit to keeping her love for learning and family at the center of our own lives. The odyssey of Jack Van Hooser

Staff Writer, The Daily Herald

Jack Van Hooser is a kindly, older gentleman with a gleam in his eye and a firm handshake. Although he lives in Nashville now, he graduated from Central High School in 1951. He played football, baseball and basketball, and he was Mr. Everything at the school. He won all sorts of awards before going off to Tennessee Tech where he won more. In spite of this, he tends to give the praise to others, and shies from taking any credit for himself. Jack is a gentleman's gentleman, and it is hard not to be charmed by him. Jack Van Hooser went on to serve as a school coach, and later as a distinguished member of state government. He finally was the director of Vocational Rehabilitation for the entire state before his retirement several years ago. His success in life is at odds with the struggles he had in growing up. This is the part of Jack's story that amazes me. Jack's father was a good bit older than his mother, and they were having marital difficulties. His mom and dad sheltered the three boys from any of this, and in 1939 they were divorced. The boys were told calmly and without rancor. It was decided that the youngest boy would go home to the mother's parent's farm with her, but that Jack and his older brother, Charles, would go with their father. zJack's Dad was a traveling salesman, of sorts. They packed all their worldly possessions into a single cardboard box tied up with twine, and they boarded a bus for the next big town down the line. Dad left the two small boys at the bus station as he walked around town until he found a boarding house, and a room for them to rent. Then he found a convenient taproom to knock back a few cold ones, before heading back to the bus station to collect his sons and their box. Dad's business saw him knocking on doors the next day looking for folks who had old photos that they wanted refinished and framed. After collecting several photos, and the requisite fees for his services, he would find a photo lab in town, and have the image cleaned up, enlarged and reproduced. He then went by some five and dime store, bought a cheap frame, and took the improved image of someone's loved one back to their house to pick up the final payment. It should be obvious that he was not getting rich. While Dad was out selling his services, the boys were usually left on their own for the day. Charles was a fourth grader and Jack was a first grader. They would wander the streets in whatever city they were in, but they studiously avoided getting in trouble. If they were in a big city, and were likely to be there awhile, their Dad would enroll them in a local school. Jack long ago lost any remembrance of all the many different schools they attended. Mostly they just wandered the streets, and got an excellent lesson in self-reliance. After several years of this zany existence, the boys came back to Maury County for high school. There at CHS Jack soared. His street smarts found him with good part-time jobs, but his social life was very limited. His mom had married Luke Moser at Bryant Station, and the boys helped him on the farm. In addition to this was school, a regular job in town, and Jack's first love – sports. He did not have time for that. He excelled at sports, and was offered a full ride scholarship at Tennessee Tech. How could he refuse? He got his degree, but even better, he won the heart of one of Tech's Golden Girls. Jack and Wanda have been married for...well, quite some time. Their life together has been exciting, and they have a passel of beautiful grandchildren to prove it. Jack knew that his particular story was unique, so he has written a book about it. I read it cover to cover, and had a hard time putting it down. It is called, "A Journey to Remember."

The extraordinary life of Clara Loretta (Crawford) Webb came to a conclusion with her passing on Thursday, Sept. 17, 2026. The resident of Madison, TN, was 91. She was a mother, a Granny, a wife, a teacher, a talented craft painter and a feisty Christian. She surrendered her hard-earned teaching career in order to raise her three children and run the family home. It became her greatest achievement despite regrets that she left her classroom. The past few years when driving by Madison High School, she would wave and say, "Hi classroom." Mrs. Webb was a product of a farming family in tiny Nebo, KY. Her interests in music and reading led her to attend Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville. She earned her bachelor's degree in three years. Her mother, Jennie Crawford, implored her to take extra classes because she was fearful that her Loretta's dad would cut off her funds and force her home. As a senior, Loretta earned honors as Miss Peabody for overall excellence. A favorite memory was going out with a Vanderbilt football player to dance at fraternity parties. Upon graduation, she chose to stay in Nashville and began a career teaching math with assignments at Litton and Madison schools. It was at Litton she met her future husband, Ronald Webb. They were married in 1957. By 1959, they had purchased a home in Madison. Mrs. Webb lived in her home until her death. She was a long-time member of Mathews Memorial United Methodist Church in Madison. She was known as the "Candy Lady," her oversized purse filled with Werther's Original caramel hard candies. She loved all the hands that reached out for treats. Mrs. Webb worked several years at Opryland in cash control. It was an interior bank in the park that handled and balanced money taken at Opryland restaurants, carts, retail and the front gate. Later, she worked on the General Jackson riverboat in a similar capacity. She developed an interest and talent in painting and crafts. She made enough cookie jar tops, ornaments and seasonal items to create a booth at Christmas Village. She used her money to buy Christmas gifts and became an accomplished painter until her hands could no longer grip her paint brushes. Fun facts: She once climbed the fence at Elvis Presley's home in Memphis; she could hypnotize chickens; she played trombone; even into her 80s, she could bend over at the waist and touch the floor with the palms of both hands. She devoured James Patterson novels and was a voracious reader; made a decadent chocolate sheet cake that had to include pecans; was not all that interested in cleaning house; loved her Diet Cokes; and Sir Pizza. Her home was filled with the friends of her children. All were welcome. And her love spread throughout the community. She was preceded in death by her husband of 57 years, Ronald Webb, in 2014; her parents, Cody and Jennie Crawford; and her brother, Bill Crawford. She will be buried in Spring Hill Cemetery in Madison next to her husband. She is survived by her children: Donnie Webb (Scott Thomas) of Antioch; Kathy Loftis (Gary) of Hermitage; and Jeff Webb (Rachel) of Franklin. Her grandchildren: Cody Webb Jr. (Margarette) of Oneonta, NY; Austin Webb of Syracuse, NY; Alexis Goodson (Mason) of New York City; Mike Loftis (Amy) of Sarasota, FL; Jamie McFerrin (Seth) of Old Hickory; Kerri Patton (Dustin) of Mt. Juliet; Krissy Cocke (Austin) of Mt. Juliet; Amanda Webb of Boston; Ashleigh Webb of Franklin; Mark Loftis (deceased). Her great grandchildren: Corynne Webb; Owen, Lucy and Evie Loftis; Trott, Ella Kate and Bennett McFerrin; Kasen, Ryan and Lofton Patton; and Tallen Cocke.

John R. Younger (1935-2026) passed away on August 21, 2026. He is survived by his daughter, Mary Clare Champion, son-in-law, Chris Champion, and his grandchildren, Leland and John Champion. He is preceded in death by his wife of nearly fifty-four years, Jessica Moore Younger, his parents, The Reverend John Travis Younger and Mary Russell Younger, and his sisters, Irene Younger Dunford and Pauline Younger Phillips. John was born and raised in Nashville, TN. He attended Montgomery Bell Academy and graduated from Litton High School. He earned his B.S. from Middle Tennessee State University and his M.A. in Mathematics and Educational Administration from George Peabody College. John dedicated his career to education in Nashville. He began his career teaching and coaching at Hillsboro High School and Litton High School before moving into administrative roles as the assistant principal at Highlight Heights Middle School and later the principal at Bellevue High School. After his move into the central office with Metro Nashville Public Schools, John served as the Supervisor of Mathematics, then the Director of Employee Relations, next the Assistant Superintendent for Business Services, and finally the Assistant Superintendent for Administrative Services. He retired from MNPS in 1992, after handing his daughter and her classmates at Hume-Fogg Academic Magnet their high school diplomas. After his retirement from MNPS, he returned to work as first the Director of Business and Finance at Franklin Road Academy, and was later named the Headmaster at FRA. He retired from that position in 2001. Though he was not someone who sought recognition for his work, his peers chose to highlight his contributions to education numerous times. Governor Ned Ray McWherter awarded him with the Tennessee's Outstanding Achievement Award in 1992. He also received the Distinguished Service Award and Life Membership Award from the Tennessee Association of School Business Officials. He was active with the Tennessee Teachers Credit Union as well as Christ Church Cathedral, the PENCIL Foundation, and was the past president of the Tennessee Association of School Business Officials. On March 27, 2001, U.S. Rep. Bob Clement, a former student of his at Hillsboro High School, spoke on the House floor to honor Mr. Younger. He concluded his words by describing his life as "one of joy, humility, faith, friendship, and truth." Apart from these achievements and accolades, and the numerous roles he held, perhaps the name he valued most was "Granddaddy." He was his happiest on the golf course with friends, looking at the ocean with a drink in hand, traveling with Jessica, or most anywhere with his family. He knew how to fix most anything, always had a good story to tell, and knew that the time to put down grass seed was around the Tennessee – Florida football game. He was steadfast and calm. He will be deeply missed. Visitation will be at Christ Church Cathedral, Nashville, on September 5th, from 10-11am with service to follow at 11am. In lieu of flowers, please consider a contribution to Christ Church Cathedral, Alive Hospice, or The Ensworth School.
